In a mid-sized company's marketing team two members – Lisa, a social media manager and Tom, a content creator – are in conflict. Lisa wants Tom to create content quickly for an upcoming campaign to meet a tight deadline, while Tom insists on taking more time to ensure high quality work. Their disagreement begins to affect the team's productivity with Tom feeling rushed and Lisa feeling unsupported.  The team's manager, Sarah, notices that the tension is growing and other team members are becoming uncomfortable. Deadlines are being missed, and the quality of work is declining.  Questions:  a. What is the primary conflict in this case?  b. What type of conflict is present in this case?  c. What approach could the manager, Sarah, take to resolve the conflict?  Discuss.  d. What are the risks if the conflict remains unresolved? Comment.  	08	T	Case Study (Compulsory):
